

Hi sayang,

I have no clue on how you could ever miss me because I'm constantly blowing up your phone but if this is how you feel, please let me know. I really like it when you tell me you miss me. If you tell me at the right time, you never know, maybe I'll make my way to your place as soon as I possibly can. If that's not possible though, you always have my perfume and my hoodie to hold on to. You could read my letters, or hey, I'm always only one phone call away. No matter how busy I am, no matter how tired I am, no matter what time of the night it is, my line is always open to you.

Best believe that I miss you too. I constantly do. Not a single second goes by where I'm not thinking about the feeling of your hand on mine and the presence of you by my side. You're always always always in my mind, running around, coming back ever so often to remind me just how much I love you and how grateful I am for you.

Text me sayang. Tell me you miss me even if you'd repeat the same thing a million times. You know I'd do anything for you. I love you baby. I miss you so much more.